

EXPECT GOVERNORS AT ROADS MEETING

Invitations to Be Sent to Chief Executives of Three States.

PREPARE PROGRAM

The Chamber of Commerce
Adopts Plans for December Convention.

Governors of three states, Governor Williams of Oklahoma, Governor Capper of Kansas, and Governor Major of Missouri, have been invited to the convention of the Oklahoma Good Roads Federation, scheduled for this city December 10-11. All are good roads enthusiasts and it is almost a certainty they will accept and attend the meeting.

E. O. Tillman, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, during the regular monthly luncheon of the directors of the chamber at Hotel Tulsa yesterday, announced that an extensive publicity campaign already had been started with a view to making the convention the largest of the kind ever held in Oklahoma, and that the governors had been invited. All plans for the meeting, as presented to the board during the meeting, were adopted. Started Road Work. Governor Major became famous throughout the United States a few years ago when he created "Good Roads Day" and worked in earnest along with state convicts and others in an effort to make Missouri famous for its fine highways. He used a shovel eight hours of the day, working beside seasoned laborers who were used to just such work. Photographs of the governor at work were published all over the country. The year following Governor Capper of Kansas announced a "Good Roads Day" during which every million of the state would be expected to devote his attention and energy to working on the roads. Governor Capper stilled his intention of working hard himself and Governor Major, hearing of the plan, offered to help. Therefore, the chief executives of Kansas and Missouri shovelled dirt and used picks for a whole day side by side, and simultaneously throughout the state similar work was being done.

All Three May Work. After the Tulsa convention it is not improbable Oklahoma will have a good roads day, and it may be that Governor Capper and Major will work with Governor Williams. Such a proceeding would greatly advertise the state and incidentally make a wonderful improvement in its system of highways. A general committee was formed of the convention and good roads committees during yesterday's meeting, and this general committee will prepare the plans which were adopted. A suitable hall must be secured, while arrangement of the entertainment features is important. The finance committee will provide the means to defray the expense of the undertaking.

HOLSTEIN HERD AT SAND SPRINGS NOW

Thoroughbred Dairy Cattle
From Wisconsin for Local Home.

A carload of Holstein dairy cows from Wisconsin will be received by Sand Springs home within the next few days and will be added to the dairy herd of that institution. This herd now numbers a few more than one hundred and will be increased with 100 more one hundred and fifty head of milk cows. Ten cows in the carload to be placed on route are now giving five gallons of milk each a day.

This was ordered yesterday for the big dairy barn for the home which is to be erected just to the east of Sand Springs. A site that holds two hundred and fifty tons of ensilage was erected in the late summer on the dairy farm site. The new barn will be a modern building in every way, and will have full equipment of hot and cold water, heating and ventilating, sterilizing rooms, and comply in every respect with the latest sanitation.

Most of the product of this dairy will be consumed by the home and its auxiliary institutions. Children in the widows' colony will use a large quantity of the milk and butter, while it takes a goodly number of milk cows to supply the appetites of the sixty-five or seventy children in Sand Springs home.

The home farm is now managed so that practically everything that is needed in the way of edibles is grown on it. Its canning factory last summer canned many thousands of gallons of vegetables and fruits and berries. It has added a cereal and flour mill where the yield of its wheat fields is manufactured into whole wheat flour, and it will shortly begin making bran specialties and breakfast foods. The home has its own chicken ranch and its herds of swine and cattle so that of all the things which went to make up the big Thanksgiving dinner of last Thursday, sugar and cranberries were about the only things needed which the home farm did not supply.

Jarring the Hostess. "So glad to have you here," murmured the hostess, who hadn't noticed him before. "You have certainly been the life of the party all the evening."

"I can hardly believe that."

"That is due to your modesty."

"Not it is due to the fact that I have but this minute arrived."

Doubtful Tough. "Heard you on fishing trip."

"Wasn't it?"

"Bum. Had no luck, either on the fishing or at poker."

We don't pay rent.
We will save you 10 per cent of our cost on all goods.

The grocery business is a cold-blooded business proposition of dollars and cents.

We are in position to sell groceries cheaper than any house in the state and we are doing it. No, please, anybody can say "we sell better for less"; but here is where they don't. Cut this list out and take it with you when you go to buy groceries and ask them to match our prices. If they don't, walk right out and down to the Exchange. We will match every item or go out of business.

There are not set prices, but our regular prices. Now let's reason a little. If you know you could save 10 per cent on your groceries, wouldn't you all come to the Exchange? Of course you would. When you put cash you are entitled to the full purchasing power of your money.
